No changes needed to county government

Haliburton County municipalities are generally satisfied with the present for of county government here and few recommendations were suggested to the Advisory Committee on County Government during its hearings in Peterborough last week.

County Clerk Gary McKnight told the committee that the present functions and responsibilities of Haliburton County Council are satisfactory and individual municipalities would likely oppose their widespread change to the system."

"I feel that everything is going pretty good," McKnight told the committee last Wednesday at the Peterborough County Courthouse. The services provided by the county are adequate, he said.

In mid - February, Bernard Grandmaitre, Minister of Municipal Affairs, formed the advisory committee to study the structure and responsibilities of county government in Ontario. The study, in response to changing conditions throughout the province, will investigate the need to revamp the county level of government.

The focus of the study will be on representation, including the present exclusion of mayors from the country seat; multiple voting systems; eligibility for multiple representatives and substitutions. It will also address council size, methods of choosing a Warden, and functions of county government.

Representation on Haliburton County Council does not presently pose a

World youth arrive

After a long bus ride from Orangeville, 14 young "residents of the world" arrived at the Haliburton United Church, where a small reception was staged to greet the visitors.

The 14 youths, seven from across Canada and their counterparts from carious counterparts from various locations in Pakistan, are participants in the Canada World Youth exchange program, and will be billeting with Haliburton families for the next three and a half months.

Obviously drained from the long, hot bus ride, the participants were treated to some cool drinks in the church basement before being officially greeted by the community. On hand to welcome the participants were Haliburton County Warden Murray Fearrey, Evelyn Flemming from the Order of the Eastern Star, Reverend Crighton and Gerry Feltham.

Their arrival in Haliburton marks the start of a seven-month exchange designed to promote better understanding of other cultures. Following their stay here, the contingent will travel to Pakistan for another three and a half months.

The seven Canadian participants were selected from across the country by

Trailer ban sticks

Unless an exception to the bylaw banning trailers in Anson, Hindon and Minden Townships can be drafted, Jim Davis will have to remove his trailer from his vacant lot on Canning Lake.

Asking for an exception to the bylaw at Thursday's council meeting, Davis said he uses the trailer only for storage, washrooms and refrigeration while spending time on the shore. He told council he does not use the trailer as a residence and therefore should be allowed to keep the trailer on the site.

Bylaw Enforcement Officer Peter Oomen said he had received a complaint about the use of the trailer and sent a letter to Davis informing him that it is in violation of current bylaws. He said Davis had asked at that time to make a presentation to council.

Utilizing a slide projector, Davis showed council pictures of his trailer, as well as pictures of some of the surrounding properties. He noted that some of the neighbouring cottages are in ill repair while other properties have tents set up. "And by gosh and behold, there's another trailer," Davis noted as he flipped to the next slide.

Davis, who owns a farm on an adjacent lot, asked council for an exception to the bylaw. The proposed exception would allow residents with property adjacent to their permanent residences to use a trailer. This would be subject to licencing through the township, he said.

While Reeve Sinc Nesbitt agreed Davis is in a unique situation, he said there has to be some sort of rules or trailers will start showing up on all vacant properties. He said this is what the bylaw was designed to prevent.

Nesbitt said he has no objection to the proposed exception, but expressed some concern about means of controlling the use of trailers.

Although Oomen said he is satisfied with Davis' proposal, Nesbitt said he needed more time to think about it. "It's not that easy to deal with," he said. He added that for the time being, the trailer will not be permitted.

Davis also pointed out inconsistencies with the bylaw. He said it does not make sense that trailers are prohibited while tents are allowed. He said a trailer has more adequate washroom facilities than what would be used by tenters, yet there are no restrictions on the use of tents.

Davis also pointed out that residents right in the village of Minden have trailers next to their homes which are hooked up to hydro and water. He noted that all of these are in violation of the bylaw.

Dorset acid rain report

The following information on acidic precipitation was gathered at the Ministry of Environment testing station in Dorset and compiled by Environment Canada. There were three precipitation events during the latest reporting period.

- on July 13, 17 mm of rain, pH 4.8, from Wisconsin, northern Michigan and central Ontario.
- July 14, 7 mm, pH 4.9, from Wisconsin, northern Michigan and central Ontario.
- July 18, 1 mm, pH 4.2, from Iowa, Wisconsin and Lake Huron.

Environmental damage is usually observed in sensitive areas regularly receiving precipitation with pH less than 4.7. Readings of 4.0 pH or less are considered dangerous. The lower the reading, the more acidic the precipitation.

1:30 a.m. lunacy

They call it 1:30 a.m. lunacy. Patrons of the local bars, reluctant to let the party die after last call, start whooping it up through the streets of Minden on their way home. And behind them they leave a trail of vandalism.

Early this past Sunday morning, this sort of stupidity rose up again. These vandals set to work uprooting real estate signs, rattling newspaper boxes, waking the neighbourhood and generally making a nuisance of themselves.

It's hard to imagine that this sort of activity could be interpreted as fun, even by someone in a drunken state. However, the lunacy is becoming all too common these days.

In terms of dollar value, the destruction from Sunday morning's spree was minor. However for the residents who lose hours of sleep because of the racket, it is a major problem.

More police patrols around town at this hour of the night might help curb the problem. However, this should not be necessary. All that is required is for these idiots to show a little respect for their neighbours by making the walk home in a quiet fashion.

One of the signs knocked over during the Sunday morning spree.

Signed letters welcome

The letters column, one of the best read sections of the newspaper, is open to all readers for expressing opinions on matters of local interest. In encouraging readers to make use of this service, we would advise that letters which are not too lengthy, come to a point clearly and quickly, draw the greatest readership. All letters to the editor must be signed with information provided so we can authenticate authorship, and writers should be aware that their names will appear with the letter.

We reserve the right to edit letters for length or content, however edited letters will not be printed without the author's approval of the changes. Letters rejected for publication will be returned. We also reserve the right to reject any submissions.

In addition to providing information about the community we serve, an important duty of this newspaper is to comment on issues of the day. We invite our readers to speak out as well on matters they feel need airing.

Letters to the editor attract high readership, offering different points of view on issues of importance and offer the opportunity for a free exchange of ideas, a vital part of a democratic society. This newspaper will always respect the right of citizens to be heard, within limits dictated by legal restrictions and good taste. We ask that writers be willing to allow their names to appear with their letters.

RADARSAT okayed

- by Bill Scott, MP -

On June 25, 1987 the Minister of State for Science and Technology, the Hon. Frank Oberle, and the Ministry of State for Forestry and Mines, the Hon. Gerald Merrithew, announced federal approval of the ten-year, $725 million RADARSAT program.

RADARSAT will be a Canadian-led, international joint program to design, construct and operate Canada's first earth observation system. The other participating countries will be the United States and the United Kingdom. The announcement clears the way for concluding cost-sharing agreements between the Canadian government and its foreign and domestic partners. The United States will provide a free launch for the satellite and the United Kingdon will develop the basic spacecraft structure. Canada's contribution of $292 million will be used for instruments, data analysis, integration and tests of the satellite. $50 million of that amount will be for operating costs. While Canada will control the satellite, our partners will have full access to data collected by it.

RADARSAT will be the first major federal-provincial partnership under the new National Science and Technology Policy signed in March 1987. All provinces have contributed to the planning of the program. The satellite will be launched in 1994 and will operate for five years. RADARSAT will fly in a polar orbit and will be able to observe all parts of the earth's surface. Images obtained from the satellite's Synthetic Aperture Radar (SAR) will provide data on crops, forests, and Canada's coastal waters to public and commercial users. The SAR's ability to collect data through clouds and in darkness will be particularly useful in the North, where daily surveillance of ice conditions, shipping and land 'based human activities is important for Canadian sovereignty.

RADARSAT will build on and strengthen existing Canadian industrial capability so that firms in all regiona of the country will be well placed to respond to growing opportunities in domestic and international markets. The program will help secure Canada's international status as a reliable space partner, opening doors to further activities that will bring economic and social benefits to Canadians. In particular, it will put Canadian companies in a strong position to bid on other multi-national radar programs. It is estimated that the development and operation of this system will generate 10,000 person-years of employment in Canada, and provide more than $1 billion in benefits tot the Canadian public and private sectors.

Canada wants to build on its position as a world leader in remote sensing technology. Although there are a number of satellite systems on orbit or planned, none offers the same data, data specifically oriented to Canada and Canadian needs.

Wee Care disputes CHACE claim

Editor:

Re: CHACE holds open house in the July 20 edition.

Firstly, I would like to commend CHACE Minden Daycare Centre for providing quality care for children and a much needed service for working parents. However the article was somewhat misleading, they are not the only licenced day care centre in Haliburton County. Wee Care Nursery School which has operated in Haliburton Village since 1986 is also a licenced centre and therefore has to meet the standards of the Day Nurseries Act of the Ministry of Community and Social Services. Wee Care is also a non-profit organization and is in the process of being approved to offer subsidy to parents in the fall. Wee Care offers half day as well as full day care in order to offer services to more people.

As a licenced centre operator I appreciate the article about CHACE Minden Daycare because it outlines the conditions and responsibilities under which licenced centres operate. I want to congratulate them on reaching their goal and wish them much success.

Marie Hodson,
President of Wee Care Nursery School.

New democrats' popularity gains

by Bill Kulas

Last week the New Democrats went to bat in three national by-elections and hit home runs, by winning all three seats. St. John's East in Newfoundland, Hamilton Mountain, in our province and the Yukon which was Erik Neilsen's P.C. stronghold for many years, were all won over by the N.D.P.

It appears that the N.D.P., once known as the C.C.F., is more than just a third party alternative, having even by-passed the Federal Liberals amongst the majority of Canadians as an alternative. Both Brian Mulroney and John Turner, I am sure, are shaking their heads in disbelief. No doubt both the Conservatives and Liberals can learn a great deal from what has just happened. Canadians, in general, are not placing as much emphasis on parties or party policy as they once did. The favour of the voting public rests rather more heavily with the leadership qualities, the integrity and the honesty of the party leader. Ed Broadbent seems to have those qualities. The polls are certainly proving that as did the voters in the three ridings. For most Canadians, including yours truly, the N.D.P. were thought of as being too socialistic and having no chance whatsoever of ever forming a Federal government in our great land.

With three victories under their belt, the N.D.P. are now starting to sing a different tune. Broadbent is considering revamping some party policies. The taste of power and victory sure is sweet and Broadbent wants to keep the momentum going. All of a sudden they are taking a second look at nationalization.

"With the N.D.P. leading the polls in voter support, the time has come for a major review of economic planks that once were the cornerstone of N.D.P. policy." Broadbent was quoted as saying last week. Other contentious issues that they will have to contend with if they ever dream of coming to power are issues such as not pulling out of NATO or NORAD; not nationalizing large companies such as Bell Telephone as well as big mining and resource firms; not taking over private pension plans; not ceasing the development of major airports and not phasing out nuclear energy in Canada among many other party policies which they promise they will implement if elected. Are the N.D.P. a threat, or as John Crosbie put it "The 'in' thing or the trendy thing to do right now is to vote NDP, but it won't last long." What do you think?

English invasion strikes Times

The brief visit of the Duchess of York to the Minden Wild Water Preserve last Tuesday created quite a stir in our normally sedate little community. It's not all that often that Royalty, at least of the "public eye" type, pays a visit, official or otherwise, to our fair burgh or its environs.

Her brief portage through our lives, created a little more than a flurry at the newspaper office. Shortly before noon on the big day, four journalists from two London daily newspapers arrived. Hot on the trail of their quarry, they were about an hour too late, for just as they were seeking directions to the white water park, her airplane was lifting off the waters of Mountain Lake on its return trip to Muskoka.

The reporters and photographers, having spent the night previous, in some provincially licenced den of iniquity, had been mis-informed by a member of the RCMP (who had matched them beverage for beverage and obviously won) that Her Highness would be honing her paddle prowess at about 12:30 p.m.

A misinformed Mountie? A carefully laid red herring? A fuzzy memory clouded by the fresh air of the Muskoka Lakes? Whatever, the newshounds had been led astray and lost their royal fox. But not to worry, they had, for Royal Family watchers, what amounted to an exclusive. Gathering little tidbits of this and that, they were soon on the phone to their London offices. "Hello London...I've got a dateline Minden, Minden, M-i-n-d-e-n. Yea, Ontario, north of Toronto."

Dictating from hastily scrawled notes, they turned an hour and a half canoeing lesson into an epic just short of the parting of the Red Sea. Of course, Times reporter Bill Hodgins and his exclusive photos of Her Highness with paddle in hand, were of great interest to the reporters. "What was she wearing?" one asked, a question that seemed ludicrous, but if one is a follower of the Royal family, that is one of the first points to be covered. One thing is for certain, she was not wearing a fur coat.

The photographers in the group, pored over the negatives shot on the shores of the Gull River and decided they wanted "London" to see what was available. Out came the portable wire photo machines, off came the covers on our telephone junction boxes. With practiced dexterity, the machines were connected to the lines and once again contact was made with the London newspapers editorial offices.

Through the scramble to meet the deadlines six hours behind the clock on our wall, the journalists blasted their own gullibility in accepting the word of the federal police officer at face value. "If we'd only been a half hour earlier...why did we listen to him?"

The journalists are obviously serious about their work as reporters of every move made by members of the Royal family. For us, it was an interesting break in the regular routine of things, well, perhaps a modest coup, but not the sort of thing one would want to do for a living. "Actually we are usually following Charles and Lady Di," one scribe comments. "This being Andy and Fergie's first overseas tour as a couple, they switched us to this story."

And, while some may find it dull, they obviously revelled in the game. The analogy of the fox and hounds springs to mind. The journalists represented the London Daily Mirror and and London publication Today, both tabloids, both tending toward the sensational, but, we were told, not like the Sun. They admitted that chasing Royalty across the country was not as glamourous as one might think. It can be tedious trying to make something of what the wife of one of the Queen's sons wore during an hour and a half canoe lesson in some obscure little town in one of the colonies.

They are quick to respond to the charges that their actions invade the privacy of the members of the Royal family. Admitting there are some in their numbers who just go too far, the four paparazzi say it is the reporting of the perambulations of the Royal Family that has lifted the Queen and her entourage above the common masses. The attention paid to the Royal Family has made its members something special and revered, they claim. "In other European monarchies, the king can walk into a pub and no one turns a head. Is that the kind of monarchy you want?" they ask.

A question we all might ponder as another Royal Tour fades into history.

Fun in the sun at Stanhope

Cars were lined up for nearly a quarter of a mile and the parking lots were full at the Stanhope Fire hall this past Saturday as many came to experience the Stanhope Fun Day.

Throughout the day, events were being held for the public viewing. The Ontario Provincial Police helicopter was displayed, local firefighters demonstrated how to put out a fire and even the finer points of playing the bagpipes were on for the viewing.

Many of these events had allowed the spectators to try also. Nick Lehoczky gave the crowd a quick lesson in windsurfing aboard his simulator that he invented himself. All day long the people could play bingo, join in on a dart tournament or toss around a few horseshoes. There was also a small antique car show on hand. For the kids a petting zoo was present as well as a fish pond, a movie and motorized go-kart rides.

Many people said they were surprised that they kept running out of things like food and helium filled balloons.

Members of the Stanhope Fire Department put out a fire.

Many runners expected for Heineken Yard

More than 400 runners are expected to congregate at the gates of Onondaga Camp Friday for the start of the 15th annual road race to downtown Minden.

Runners from across Ontario and the United States have been competing in this renowned country foot race since its humble beginning in 1972. The growing success of the Heineken Yard had made it "Haliburton Highlands' most venerable roadrace," says race chairman Bill Meeker.

For the second year in a row the race is being organized by a group named AMICI. This group of former camp staff has been sponsoring needy youngsters at summer camps across the province since 1966. Last year the 4.6 mile race ending in front of the Rockcliffe Tavern raised $3,500 to send underprivileged children to summer camp. The proceeds from this year's race will again go to that cause.

The race starts at 5 p.m. and carries on over 4.6 miles of rolling country road to the finish in Minden with an exciting sprint down Main Street. Prizes and certificates will be awarded to both men and women in Junior, Open and Master divisions. Three team trophies will also be awarded to the top corporate, club and camp teams.

The entry fee for this year's run is $7 and runners can register on the day of the race at the starting area. Runners are encouraged to park their cars in Minden and take the free shuttle bus to the starting line.

ANOTHER PROGRAM FROM ASSURED HOUSING FOR ONTARIO.

MAKING YOUR HOME OR RENTAL APARTMENT MORE LIVABLE FOR DISABLED PERSONS.

HERE ARE 3 WAYS YOU CAN QUALIFY FOR FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE:

1. Homeowners: Are you disabled or do you have a disabled relative living with you?

Forgivable loans of up to $15,000 are available to help you make modifications to your home for yourself or a disabled family member. For example: building wheelchair ramps, modifying kitchens and bathrooms.

Loans received through our Ontario Home Renewal Program will equal the cost of the work undertaken.

2. Convert part of your home or non-residential building into a rental apartment.

Interest free-loans of up to $5,000 are available to make new rental units for disabled occupants in single-family homes and non-residential buildings.

This special financial assistance is in addition to a $7,000 per unit loan which you could qualify for through our Convert-to-Rent Program.

CONVERT-TO-RENT

3. Landlords of older low-rise buildings can also get assistance.

Are you the landlord of a low-rise apartment building built before 1960? You could qualify for a forgivable loan of up to $5,000 to make your rental units more livable for disabled persons.

This amount is in addition to a forgivable loan of up to two-thirds of the cost of rehabilitating units in older low-rise apartments (loan maximum is $5,000 per unit). These funds are available through our Low-Rise Rehabilitation Program.

Nine busy libraries get recognition

Al Mayo of the Minden Toronto-Dominion Bank hands a cheque for $1,000 over to Bill Kulas, the Minden representative for the Haliburton Hospital Expansion fund. The money was donated by the bank for the hospital expansion.

Starting this month, Haliburton County Library Board will take official notice of the Branch demonstrating the greatest percentage improvement in library usage during the past quarter as compared to the same quarter in the previous year.

The Branch with the most improved performance will be presented with a certificate for public display and other publicity as appropriate. The award will be given out in April, July, October and January of each year.

The first award covers the period April - June, 1987 is presented to the Dorset Branch of the Haliburton County Public Library with an overall increase of 22.3% over the same period in 1986.

In commenting on the award, Joel Levis, County Librarian noted that the increase "far exceeded the median for the other eight branches which was 4.5% in its own right. Summer demands on the collection are not really a major factor during the period and with new facilities being planned for the Branch, we can expect even greater increases in the future."

The result recognizes the work that is being done in the library by Jean Greenaway, Supervisor."

Not recognized by a certificate but worthy of note are increases of 19.1% at Glamorgan Branch and 18.9% at the Highland Grove Branch.

Septic efficiency disputed

The distance septic systems are set back from a lake and the amount of vegetation on this property are important factors in controlling the amount of phosphorus leaking into lakes, says Richard Doherty, who is conducting a lake capacity study for Stanhope Township.

At a recent township council meeting, Doherty said septic systems are capable of retaining only 20 per cent of the phosporus. However, after recent conversations with experts, he says this figure is very much up for dispute.

Doherty also notes that the 20 per cent figure given does not take into consideration the amount of phosphorus retained by the soil and vegetation between the system and the lake.

For the purpose of his study, Doherty utilizes a "worst-case scenario" which assumes that only 20 per cent of the phosphorus is retained. With this information, he determines the maximum number of residences a lake can acommodate on its shores.

While it is necessary for his purpose to use this figure, he notes that there are some systems which are 100 per cent efficient. However, he says, people should still be cautious about their use of soaps.

To provide area lakefront property owners with good information in this regard, he has obtained 200 copies of a Ministry of Environment booklet called "Cottage Country," an environmental manual for the cottager." He says these books are available to the public through his office or by writing to the Ministry of the Environment, Communications Branch, 135 St. Clair Ave., W., Toronto.

Outspoken Irwin opposes feminists

Scrawled inside the jacket of Grace Irwin's own copy of her most recent novel is a note marking the return of the loons to Echo Bay. After an absence of more than a year, she first heard the haunting cry just off her island a few weeks ago. Just days later, she observed a number of baby loons with their mother. Beneath the note, in bold letters, Irwin exclaims, "Hallelujah!"

Irwin, who reached the age of 80 on July 14, sees the return of the loons to the bay as her birthday present. It is easy to see that of all God's creations, the loon is Irwin's favourite. Even the island, where she has summered for more than 60 years, is named after this mysterious bird.

Aptly enough, "Loon Echo Island July 14, 1986" is the dateline which introduces the preface to her novel, "Three Lives in Mine."

Since her teens, Irwin has spent each of her summers on this small island in the centre of Echo Bay on Boshkung Lake. She and her mother were tourists in Haliburton County, long before tourism was ever an important part of the area's economy.

Since that time, the small cottage has undergone a few changes. A small sunroof has been installed to compensate for the light blocked off by towering pines, which have sprouted up over the years. And last year, she reluctantly admits, a hydro line was stretched across the water, providing her with the convenience of an electric stove and refrigerator.

However, much has remained the same. Beside the cottage, a makeshift saw horse still stands - the same fixture that was rigged up by her brother, John, when he taught her to cut wood. Down a steep incline to the lake, an old ice hut is a reminder of the days prior to electricity or gas. And a few yards along the shoreline at the dock, the absence of a power boat is quite noticeable. Despite her age, Irwin still makes the trek from her island to the mainland in either her rowboat or canoe.

A resourceful, independent and outspoken person, Irwin could easily be mistaken for a "liberated woman". However, she insists this is not the case, and her recent novel is proof of this.

Three Lives in Mine, could loosely be described as an autobiography. More accurately, though, it is a story of the men who had the greatest influence on her life; her brother John, her father and her pastor, Herbert Harold Kent.

The novel, in which she expresses her objection to the feminist movement, had originally been dubbed "In Praise of Men". However, she said her publishers felt this title too closely resembled another less reputable novel.

While she admits some women may have cause to rebel against the outdated role of man as sole provider and head of the house, she says her experiences with men have, for the most part, been of a very positive nature.

"Being a woman has always been delightful," she said. "I've always thought it was the preferred sex."

With stinging wit, she lashes out at the more militant of feminists in her novel. "...one of my objections to the feminist stance is the very division of mankind -- horrors, personkind; better say humanity (or should it be hupersonity?) into opposing camps according to sex -- what do they do with the in-betweens?"

With this estabishing the tone of her novel, she carries on to explain her relationships with men have had a positive influence on her life. In a biographical nature, the bulk of this novel pays tribute to the three men who were closest to her heart.

Three Lives in Mine is the seventh novel of Irwin's to be published. Others include Least of All Saints, Andrew Connington, In Little Place, Servant of Slaves, Contend With Horses, and The Seventh Earl.

Of these, Servant of Slaves, which has been translated into a number of different languages, is the most widely read.

Irwin began her writing career with the completion of her first manuscript while in college. Although she feels this novel is well written -- "It's a good story, but is a bit too youthful" -- it has never been published. She said she is considering reworking that early novel to see if it can be published now.

Irwin soon discovered that becoming a published author is a long, painstaking process. In 1938 she completed the manuscript for Least of All Saints, which was shelved for 14 years before being published in 1952, The novel soon became a Canadian Best Seller, which Irwin says at that time was no great feat. All that meant was "anything Canadian that sold over 2,000 copies."

While Least of All Angels sat unpublished, Irwin went to work on what was to be a sequel. And soon after that first novel went into print and was met with success, Andrew Connington was published, establishing her credentials as a serious author.

Outside of her writing, Irwin also had another career. For 38 years she taught at Humberside Collegiate Institute. She remembers her first year at the school when she was just a few years older than the students she was teaching. There were 34 boys and seven girls in her Grade 13 class, which could have been a real handful for a young teacher, she says. However, she says one of the larger boys in the class took it upon himself to come to her defence whenever the class began acting up.

She started out teaching Latin and Greek at this Toronto school and later began teaching English. By 1942 she had become the problem, McKnight told the committee. The townships of Dysart et al, Lutterworth, Sherbourne McClintock et al, Stanhope, Glamorgan and Anson, Hindon and Minden are all represented by a reeve and deputy reeve at the county level.

County system adequate

The smaller municipalities of Snowdon, Bicroft, Cardiff and Monmouth have only one representative the reeve, sitting on county council.

Although each municipality in the county had been asked to make submissions, the committee had received none by the time of the hearings. McKnight agreed that this lack of response is an indication of the municipalities' satisfaction with the present system.

Asked if he felt the present size of county council was sufficient, McKnight said it could even do with a smaller membership. He said there are only three major committees on county council, and most of the reeves sit on all of these. The amount of committee work at the county level does not cause too much of a burden for the members, McKnight felt.

The committee then noted that a system of reducing the number of members on county council is being considered. This would involve raising the population level required to qualify a deputy for a council seat to 5,000 from the present 2,500.

Some of the responsibilities the committee is considering that county governments might be asked to assume include waste management, emergency planning, policing, economic development and planning.

McKnight noted that Haliburton County Council already oversees welfare and emergency services, and is giving consideration to assuming responsibility for waste management. Regarding emergency planning, he said the various municipalities in the county are drafting their own plans.

Ken and his family enjoy the Highlands' hospitality year round at their cottage on 12 Mile Lake. Ken and Doug invite you to drop by and meet the new general manager and discuss your boating requirements.

Sale is over, activities continue

by Shirley Hodgson

Well, the Summer Exhibition and Sale is over for another year - and from all reports, it was very successful. The check out days were Sunday and Monday and the various artists gathered together to pack up their art pieces which had not sold and to check on their sales.

Congratulations Vivienne Hill and Wendy Bateman for a job well done. The heat was really unbearable on some of the days in the past two weeks, and all of the volunteers seem to be weary but I'm sure they are happy that everything went off so well. Thank you again to all the volunteers.

If you did visit the summer sale, you would have, of course, been able to see the most beautiful Blue Heron which David Risk painted. Please watch for his show which is coming up on July 31 until August 23. It will feature a new series of paintings by David Alexander Risk - who won the top award at this year's show. His show at the Rails' End Gallery will be called "Call of the Wild".

The 100" loom continues to draw many interested people. It has proven to be quite a challenge to all the people that have worked on it since May.

On Monday night many of the weavers group gathered at the Haliburton Museum for their regular meeting. There was a great deal of interest as many of our members brought their blankets which they have completed.

Wendy Bateman showed her slides on the "Fashion Show" which was held Wig-a-mog this spring.

Take time to enjoy nature

by Illa Cooper

What a beautiful summer we are having! Oh yes, it's humid at times but the sun has really been with us - a sure cry from that of a year ago.

Yes, summer is wearing away - and have you taken time to smell the flowers? What gorgeous blooms we have. Take a moment and gaze into the heart of a flower. There's a beauty there beyond compare.

Take time to look around you, there is a beauty along the roadsides and in the fields. Wild flowers abound everywhere - we call them weeds but they too have a beauty of their own.

Take time to drive around our village and its surroundings. There are many beautiful gardens and lawns to see. Take a drive out along the Bobcaygeon Road North, along the Scotch Line East and West, around MacKayville and Lutterworth Estates, over on Highway 121, along the river roads in the village. Come winter time you can close your eyes and envision these many summer splendours.

At the last meeting of the Minden and District Horticultural Society, Mary Perlmutter proved to be outstanding as she spoke on Organic Gardening, using film to illustrate. She gave a wealth of information and help to the gardeners present and answered many questions.

This brings us to the Annual Flower Show to be held August 6 and 7. Prize Lists are available at the Pine Shop, Sandalwood and Campbell's Garden Centre. New exhibitors are most welcome to enter into the competition.

"Floral Isles" has been chosen for this year's theme and should create a great deal of interest. So get into the swing of it!

The usual monthly meeting will be held in the courtroom on Tuesday, August 4 at 7:30 p.m. and at this there will be help for those wishing to exhibit.

So take time to look around you, you may have a number of prize winners under your nose. Good gardening and good luck at the show!

It is with a deep sense of regret that I must tell you that Pat Irwin died suddenly two weeks ago. She was one of the Guild's original members and has been very active in many ways. She was involved in numerous and varied workshops in pottery. During the past 10 years she taught classes for the Haliburton Guild of Fine Arts and Sir Sandford Fleming College. The world has lost a very special person.

Council pledges support

Road building can be a costly and complex procedure, a group of Mountain Lake residents discovered at Thursday's meeting of Anson, Hindon and Minden townships council.

In hopes of shortening the road access into their property Mrs. Gibbs approached council to request permission to build a new road to her property from Coxfarm Road, which was recently assumed by the township. She said the present private road access is 5,000 feet long and finding someone to maintain it has posed a problem. If allowed to join into the Coxfarm Road, the new access would be about 800 feet long.

Reeve Sinc Nesbitt said he sees no problem with the request, but noted that a new access road would have to be built to Ministry of Transportation and Communications standards before it could be assumed by the township. He also said that those requesting the road would have to pay for the purchase of the land for the road, as well as the construction.

Both Nesbitt and Roads Superintendent Clayton Cameron offered to provide any guidance they needed in developing the new road.

Music instructor Walter Barnes directs members of the Brass Ensemble workshop during a concert held Friday at noon at the Haliburton bandshell. The students had spent the week expanding their skills under the direction of Mr. Barnes of Toronto and local music instructors Glen Carter and Rick Vaughan in a class held at the Haliburton Highlands School of Fine Arts.

16-mile walk was entertainment

head of the English department: no small feat in those days, she says.

Yet, while she earned her livelihood writing and teaching in Toronto, she continued to spend each of her summers in Haliburton.

Her introduction to the county is a story in itself. While her family was working at a lumber camp on Big Mud Turtle Lake near Coboconk, her father, John, met a man named Ben Sawyer: "Long Ben, then well into his first nineteen year spate as reeve of Stanhope Township."

Sawyer invited the family to visit him in Haliburton where he said there were great beaches. They never took him up on the invitation for a number of years, until after the death of Irwin's father. One day, when her mother was getting restless living in Toronto, they decided to contact Sawyer and see if the offer was still open.

After spending a few summers on Maple Lake, Irwin's mother decided to buy some property on the shore of Boshkung Lake, where they camped in an old army tent for the first few years. Irwin says the area was quite different then. All the land surrounding the lake was either wild or farmed. There were no cottages dotting the shoreline.

As more and more people began discovering the area as a retreat, the Irwins moved out onto Loon Echo Island, where they built the cottage that still stands today.

She remembers their entertainment in those days consisted of a "walk around the block." This meant rowing the boat across the bay, walking to Carnarvon, then to Maple Lake and back again by the North Road. There were other walks too, some as long as 16 miles around their lake.

While much of the enjoyment of those walks has been eliminated with the widening of roads and the tremendous increase in the number of cottages and other buildings, Irwin says the arrival of electricity on the island has brought with it a new form of entertainment. Just this summer, she put a television in the cottage "so I can see the static that I've been listening to on the radio."

And when she grows tired of the static, she can watch and listen to the loons, which have made their way back to the bay.

Hustlers split pair

The Rockcliffe Hustlers split a pair of games this past week in Tri-County Fastball action. The Hustlers defeated the Lindsay Trojans 7 - 4 in the first contest. The second game saw the local squad go down to a 3 - 2 defeat at the hands of Lindsay Town Rental.

The Hustlers begin the play-off this week, with the first home game scheduled for Thursday at the Minden diamond. As of press time, the opponent for the play-off contest has not been determined.

Tournament

Four teams from the Tri-County Baseball League will invade Fenelon Falls to battle four teams from their Men's League in the Victoria County Invitational Tournament on August 1st and 2nd.

Led by league-leading Minden Rockcliffe Hustlers, the Tri-County quartet will include Lindsay's Kent Tavern and Town Rent All, plus Janetville. Fenelon Falls will be fielding Welch's Fuels, Gramp's Champs, Lindsay Cleaners and Legion Midgets.

Games every two hours from 3 to 9 p.m. Saturday, and 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. Sunday should jam the newly-named Russ Baptiste Sports Field in Fenelon Falls for the revival of this most popular tournament in the Kawarthas.

Telling your age is just a roll of the dice. Four-year-old Ashley Davidson puts some spin on the dice during a fun carnival at CHACE Daycare centre last Thursday.

Village to be classroom

CWY to participate, while the Pakistani youths were chosen for the exchange by their country's ministry of education.

Canada World Youth has been sponsoring exchanges with developing countries for the past 15 years. The program is designed to foster cross-cultural communications and a growing awareness of social and economic issues.

During their stay here, the group will complete a project to repay the community for its hospitality. In Haliburton Village, the project will be a rock garden for the horticultural society.

The participants will also be working as volunteers in the fields of education, social services, small business and agriculture while on the exchange. This sort of integration into the community is an important part of the exchange since the community is considered to be the classroom for their learning experience.

Haliburton County Warden Murray Fearrey extends a greeting to Salahuddin Mehtab, a Canada World Youth Exchange participant, upon his arrival at the Haliburton United Church Wednesday afternoon. The 14 participants from Pakistan and across Canada will be living and working the county for the next three and a half months.

Parking rules are confusing

Requirement for parking spaces for businesses under the new Official Plan for Anson, Hindon and Minden Townships caused some confusion when it comes to building additions to existing businesses, council discovered Thursday.

Chief Building Official Peter Oomen approached council for some clarification of the guidelines after trying to determine the amount of parking required for the addition to Minden's Home Hardware store.

Under the Official Plan, businesses are required to provide a certain number of parking spaces. The number required depends on the size of the building.

However, prior to the adoption of the plan, no parking spaces were required. Therefore it was unclear if Home Hardware would have to base its parking on the entire building or just on the addition.

Home Hardware is supplying 22 new parking spaces, which Oomen said is sufficient if the requirement is based only on the addition. However, he said this falls short of the need if based on the entire store.

Reeve Sinc Nesbit suggested that Oomen set up guidelines to deal with this and future situations.

New building

A new two-storey apartment and professional building could be in the offing for Minden, council learned at its meeting Thursday.

Approval in principle was given to a proposal from Bob Austin for the building to be located on Bobcaygeon Road between the Shell station and the IGA Road.

Although he has not tenants lined up for the office spaces, he told council it will be suitable space for lawyers, chiropractors, eye specialists or other professionals.

Council's approval of the building is subject to the completion of site plans.

Smelly business

Council will be calling for quotations on the cost of building a wall around three sides of the water and sewage pumping station after complaints were received regarding noise and smell emanating from the plant.

Council was told that estimates obtained three years ago were around $800 for this work. Councillors Bob Sisson and Verne Graham objected to having a wall built, saying it is too expensive and would not eliminate the problem.

Departure

I had a wonderful husband,
I loved him with all my heart.
The day he had to leave me,
My world just fell apart.
We had two lovely horses,
As pretty as they could be,
Now they are owned by others,
They, I never again may see.
We had a big black doggie,
He was an affectionate pet,
The day I had to part with him
I'm sure I won't forget.
So now I'm getting older,
And soon I may have to go,
I hope some friend will say about me
"My Goodness I miss her so."

Well folks, more hot weather again, but it won't be long until winter.

I'm sure Mr. Ed Brohm will get a surprise when he reads The Times. It should have read Mrs. Ed Brohm took me out for lunch, it it was my mistake, I apologize, sorry Mr. Brohm.

The UCW ladies of Minden brought our afternoon tea on Thursday. The luncheon tea was really good as well as the sing-song after. Mrs. Coburn and Norma Barron came on Friday afternoon and sang and played for us. We really enjoyed it very much.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Moulton from Kitchener came to visit Amelia Good who just had her 93rd birthday.

Sorry to report that Gordon Carr is on the sick list. Hope he will be better soon.

Our sympathy is extended to the family and friends of Berta Dawson who passed away recently after a long illness.

Winnie Barnum had a visit with her son Terry on Saturday afternoon.

The services in the chapel on Sunday evening were led by Rev. J. Burgess, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Thompson. On Tuesday morning the service was taken by Rev. Ed Moll of Minden United Church.

Movies on Tuesday were "Canadians can Dance" and "Film Factory".

We are sorry to hear about Mike Elder's accident but glad he wasn't seriously injured.

All for this week!

This may be a bad old world, but what courage goodness can still be found in it.

Controlling diabetes

by Stephen Dawson, M.D.

Last week I discussed the abnormal physiology that takes place in Diabetes which results in all of the chronic complications. This week, I'd like to deal with concepts in controlling Diabetes to hopefully avoid some of these problems.

The first priority is education of the Diabetic with regard to diet, monitoring control of the blood and urine sugars, what to watch out for in times of illness, teaching the diabetic how to measure and inject their own insulin. Recognition, prevention and treatment of hypoglycemia is important. They must be aware of the importance of proper foot care to avoid ulcers and worsening of their peripheral vascular disease (poor circulation). It is important for them to get their daily exercise and strictly adhere to a diabetic diet.

Avoiding other risk factors for arteriosclerosis (hardening of the arteries) which is prevalent in diabetes, is essential. This means that no diabetic should ever smoke. Blood pressure and cholestorol should be well-controlled. Vaccinations against influenza and pneumonia are recommended.

Urine can be tested at home by the diabetic for sugar and ketones (an abnormal chemical in the urine when diabetes is out of control). The preferred method for following glucose control now, is the home blood glucose monitoring, by pricking the finger and within a minute a portable machine can tell you the blood sugar.

Diabetics are more predisposed to infection. These must be diagnosed and treated promptly.

Medic-Alert bracelets are important. If a diabetic is having an insulin reaction, most people passing by will simply think the patient is drunk and leave them alone while the patient is suffering from a possibly fatal condition.

Some diabetics can be treated by diet and exercise alone. If blood sugars remain elevated, oral hypoglycemic drugs are often given. Nevertheless, some diabetics are still going to be poorly controlled with these injections. Many forms of insulin are now available and there are currently convenient delivery systems for, relatively painless injections.

A cure for Diabetes still remains but in the meanwhile, there is no reason why a well-motivated diabetic can't enjoy a healthy, normal life, providing they are aware of potential problems that can arise and take proper measures to optimize control of diabetes.

CARD OF THANKS

Thank you for all the gifts and cards I received and all the relatives and friends who attended my 80th birthday party. A special thanks to my family and guests for the great lunch they served.
Cecil Burk

The women of St. Paul's A.C.W. want to thank all those who made our Bazaar and Luncheon a success. Congratulations to Frances Tierney who won the quilt raffle.

Sincere thanks to the staff of Hyland Crest for the lovely gifts and money, especially Marie for the poem she wrote and the lovely lunch in honour of my retirement. Will treasure these always.
Hazel

The Haliburton Branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society wishes to thank the 234 donors who attended the blood clinic. 198 donations were added to the blood bank. A special thank you to the volunteers and to the members of the business community who were so generous with their time and donations which made the clinic a success.
